

band, an old volunteer from the army, supported himself by managing a stall. There was very little about the management of the market and its history that the Mayor didn't know by the time he left, when he said of the Housewives' League and its members: "It's a great thing if the women will only keep it up."

The army of women who laid siege to Washington Market today came from every nook and cranny of the Borough of Manhattan and represented a dozen different social strata. Some rolled down in great limousines, with their maids to carry their baskets; some came in taxis, but more came afoot. By 9 o'clock there were at least five hundred at the booths, pushing and shoving, good naturedly and making flying rushes for what they made out to be bargain counters.

FLAG AND BOUQUET FOR EVERY VISITOR.

They were met at the various entrances to the market by members of the Reception Committee of the Washington Market Association, and provided with market baskets and bouquets. There was a tiny American flag and a little bouquet for every one and a host of guides to point out the way to poultry stalls, the booths of beef or lamb specialists, pork and sausage counters, and the niches occupied by the green grocers.

The Reception Committee was in charge of Frank J. Murray and Frank A. Knoll, who were posted at the entrance at Vesey and Washington streets, giving immemorial orders and beaming joyously as they stood up the ever increasing swarms of housewives who have organized to defeat the middleman of his profit and do their buying with their eyes open.

The scores of brides and the enormity of their ignorance was a source of unending joy to the white jacketed experts who wielded the cleaver and the boner.

There were brides who wanted a porterhouse steak of the new order, brides who didn't know what they wanted and asked innumerable "bought" questions, and brides who were "strenuously" of the fact that meat is sold by the pound.

If the great crush to market today is any guide, when which to reckon the future, the New York housewife is likely to revolutionize the system of retail foodstuffs in this city.

POGGI VANISHES AGAIN UNDER LAWYER'S PAROLE

had not let Poggi out of his sight, he said, until 1 o'clock. Then, on the sidewalk in Centre street, opposite the Criminal Court Building, some one halted him. He turned his head, and when he looked back, "Louis the Lawyer" had vanished.

Nobody saw which way Louis went. It was as though he had dissolved into thin air. Mr. Moore said he started accounts out in every direction looking for Louis, but the scouts could not pick up the trail.

Judge Crane, after hearing Mr. Moore's story, ordered the bond of Poggi forfeited and directed that a bench warrant be issued. Then Spilberg, counsel for the Empire Surety Company, projected himself into the proceedings.

LAWYER PAID OVER $4,000 TO THE COUNTY.

On behalf of the Empire Surety Company, said Mr. Spilberg: "I hereby notify the court that the bond was forfeited by you yesterday afternoon. Immediately after the forfeiture judgment was obtained and I paid $4,000 in cash, the amount of the bond, into the hands of Assistant District Attorney Lavelle, in charge of the Bureau of Penitentiaries. As far as my client is concerned that bond incident is closed."

Mr. Moore protested persistently. He said that the bond is still in effect. Mr. Spilberg said that Poggi's appearance in court today not only set aside the forfeiture of the bond as ordered yesterday, but completed the contract of the security company to deliver Poggi into the hands of justice. Judge Crane said he thought the bond would be maintained in its order of forfeiture.

WE, SIMONE SEES VICE FROM MAGISTRATE'S SEAT.

Just One Very Dark Case is Produced That Diverts French Actress on Slum Trip.

Sene, Simone, the famous Parisian actress, who has spent the season in the midst with some measure of profit, went out today to study the crime and of a great city as it affects through a police court. And where, dear reader, do you suppose she went? To Morrisania Police Court in the Bronx, where the gallant but half-mad Magistrate Corrigan is sitting. She occupied a place beside the Magistrate and listened intently to the only case that came up.

This was the case of Mrs. Annie Madden vs. Miss Annie Walker, both exceedingly dark of complexion and equally as to hostile admittance. Mrs. Madden charged Mrs. Walker with assault.

Primarily the case would have been disposed of with swiftness and despatch. But in order to give Miss Madden an insight into life in the dark town of the Bronx many witnesses were called who did produce much amusement for the distinguished guest.

Mrs. Walker was fined $10.

CRIMINAL MURDER CASE.
MURDER OF JOHN J. CONNELLEY, the well-known actor, was the subject of a hearing in the Criminal Court today. The case was set for trial on April 15th.

GIRL WIFE TELLS HOW SHE KILLED JEERING HUSBAND

"Shoot Yourself; It's Best for Both," Mrs. Nicodemus Swears He Said.

INTENDED ONLY SUICIDE

Grief-Rent Witness Declares She Never Knew She Had Fired Fatal Shot.

With more self-control than she showed during her appearance on the witness stand on Monday, Genevieve Nicodemus, the twenty-year-old Scotch girl on trial before Judge Honsalaky in the Court of General Sessions on a charge of murdering her husband, today resumed her testimony. It was not necessary to-day for her to be supported to the witness chair, but a uniformed court officer stood ready to jump to her assistance should an attack of emotion overcome her.

"I was so discouraged that I wanted to die," she said, "but I didn't want to die alone."

She was telling of the offer of Frank Nicodemus of a bottle of carbolic acid as a medicine which would relieve the trouble from which she was suffering. She started to take the medicine, but her husband stopped her, saying "Wait until I am out."

She then discovered the label on the bottle "Carbolic Acid."

"Frank looked disappointed," she said, "but I didn't want to die alone."

AGREED TO DRINK ACID IF HE WOULD STAY NEAR HER.

"I told Frank that if he wanted me to die I would drink the acid, if he would promise to stay with me while I did it," she said. "He couldn't do it because the police would arrest him for murder and he couldn't stand for that."

"He took the tube of the gas heater and said it would be awful easy for me to turn on the gas and put the end of the tube in my mouth. He said he couldn't support me, and that I wouldn't do what he wanted—about making friends with other men—I couldn't support him, and perhaps it would be a rest to me to die."

"I told him if he would stay with me until I was dead I was willing. But he said no, he could not stand for being tried for murder."

"How much money did your husband ever give you, if any?" asked her counsel, Abraham Levy.

"Twenty-five cents," she answered, after a long pause.

"How did that happen?"

"One time he had four tickets to the Deep Purple and I wanted to go and he said: 'No, Gene, you can't go; but here is 10 cents, so go to your sister, Louis.'"

At another time, the girl said, Nicodemus gave her 12 cents for ice cream, when she complained that she was lonely and had no pleasure in life.

GRIEVED WITH SLOW AFTER RUNNING TO MEET HUSBAND.

Mr. Levy read a letter which the girl sent to her husband just before the shooting. She wrote that she had left New York for good, and would not "bother" him any more. She was in St. Mary's Hospital, Jamaica, she wrote, waiting for her treatment. With 10 a month due for her treatment, she appealed for $6 he had promised, and had only two cents to buy the stamp for the letter. The letter was "frankly" considerate of her "darling Frank."

On the day before the shooting, the witness testified, she got a message from her husband through a cousin that he was ready to be good and take care of her. She made an appointment over the telephone and went to meet him at his mother's house.

"I was so excited," she said, "I was almost afraid I wouldn't see him much. I ran all the way. Then he was there with a friend and I went up to him and he didn't kiss me—or anything like that—he just tried to see me. He—he—struck me!"

"I was all burned up. I felt awful. He struck me on the cheek and asked me where I had been the Saturday night before. I ran home and tried to tell mamma. I couldn't talk. I could only say: 'Mamma! mamma!'"

Mrs. Nicodemus then told of the moment when her husband was shot. Without her parents' knowledge she telephoned to her husband at his mother's home and arranged to meet him in a nearby vacant lot.

"Q. What did you do then? A. I don't remember."

BORRY SHE LIVED, GIRL-WIFE SWEARS.

"Q. Did you turn the pistol against yourself? A. Yes. I remember I shot myself."

"Q. What else? A. I remember a terrible pain."

"Q. Anything else? A. No, sir, not until I was up in the hospital and asked Frank to talk to me. He asked who I meant, and I said my husband, and she said he was upstairs and badly hurt and I couldn't see him. And they told me he was shot and I had shot him—and that was the first I knew."

The girl went into a paroxysm of tears which stopped her testimony for several minutes. She finally got control of her voice.

"Mr. Levy," she said, "I never meant to kill him. I was shot and he was alive now and I was the one who was dead."

BOONE TO THE RESCUE.

Mrs. Mary Whitney, sixty years old, was crossing Third avenue at Sixty-eighth street this morning when she was knocked by a southbound surface car. She was picked up by William Boone, chauffeur for Fire Commissioner Johnson, who was driving past at the moment and taken to Presbyterian Hospital in the Department auto.

Mrs. Whitney is suffering from internal injuries. Word was sent to her home, No. 189 Amsterdam avenue.

Novelties for Eastertide

By Eleanor Schorer

Another Stunning New Parasol and Novel Handbag. I've seen a lot of pretty parasols in my ramblings about the shops and I think that pictured here is one of the most beautiful and original in form. The fact that it is lined with black makes it very different from most of the others, hence its attractiveness. This same picture shows a new handbag, studded with semi-precious stones, which effect is very striking.

The Pannier Skirt and Coolie Hat. The pannier skirt is really becoming very popular. It is no wonder, for they are very pretty when well draped and in good proportion, and the effect of the transparent overdress is, and always has been, a favorite with fashion-loving women.

The low, mushroom contour of the coolie hat is very dainty indeed, and very becoming to young girls.

KIDS AND MATCHES BURN BABY, CAUSE DEATH OF A MAN

tingled the small blaze about the crib with pails of water and then sent in a call to St. Vincent's Hospital for an ambulance. An alarm had meanwhile been sent in by somebody in the tenement.

The St. Vincent's ambulance was slow to arrive, for a reason which the policemen did not then know, so they took the infant and Jamie Yocco aboard to the Italian Hospital nearby. There it was found that the baby was seriously burned about the face and body and that the girl's hands needed attention.

Meanwhile one of the five-ton auto trucks attached to Engine No. 20 was being driven west through West Houston street by Rudolph Sanders in answer to the fire alarm. Just as the heavy truck reached Sixth avenue a northbound car stopped to allow it to pass, but a wagon, driven by Joseph Butkus, of No. 23 Lewis street, had been passing up the avenue on the side of the car away from the approaching fire auto, blundered around the end of the car.

Sanders, who was at the wheel of the truck, realized that a collision was imminent and he quickly swerved the truck toward the sidewalk. John Norrin, and a young man who has not yet been identified, were standing at the corner. Norrin fell back and the front wheel of the fire truck ground him, as it knocked the unidentified man down. The wheel ran over his head and chest.

DOCTOR CARES FOR MAN RUN OVER BY TRUCK.

It was just at that minute that the St. Vincent's ambulance, with Dr. Welsh, was passing through Houston street in answer to the call from the tenement further down. Dr. Welsh saw that the man who had been run over by the fire truck needed instant attention. So ordering his driver to telephone to the Hudson Street Hospital for an ambulance to go on to the Palmer home, Dr. Welsh took the injured man into his ambulance and rushed him to the hospital.

There it was found that his skull and chest were crushed.

The injured man recovered consciousness for a few moments this afternoon, during which time he said that his name was Rudolph Sanders, eighteen years old, and that he lived with his mother at Cooper street and Cypress avenue, in Evergreen. He died shortly after.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

For All Spring Afflictions.

Mrs. Marion Bruce, Cumberland, Me., writes: "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a great many years, and I think it the best blood medicine in the world. I take it both spring and fall. This last winter and spring I was in very poor health. I was weak and had lost all my appetite and I was all run down. As soon as I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla my strength came back and my appetite returned. I am now well, do my housework and no longer have that tired feeling."

Get it to-day in usual liquid form or cheaply in tablets known as Sarsolabs.

GARDEN APPLIES FOR FIGHT LICENSE

The resurrection of Madison Square Garden as the boxing mecca of New York began this afternoon when there was filed with the State Athletic Commission application for a license for the "Garden Athletic Club, Incorporated." Owing to the absence of a certificate from the State Comptroller showing that a bond of $10,000 has been filed according to the Frawley Law, no action was taken by the commissioners, but it was announced that the matter will be taken up for action at the next meeting of the commission next Wednesday.

As foretold the name of the F. & D. Company, who have held the lease of the Garden, does not appear on the application. The lease, a copy of which accompanied the application, was not on view, the commissioners ordering it withheld from the public until the matter again comes before the commission. To comply with the Frawley law this lease would have to read for one full year, but Secretary Harvey of the boxing commission was unable to say just what period was mentioned in the document.

The officers of the "Garden Athletic Club, Incorporated," as named in the application, are Stephen M. Allen, No. 51 Madison avenue (the Garden), president; William H. Handel, No. 51 Manhattan avenue, secretary; Thomas J. Ryan, No. 119 Madison avenue, treasurer. As far as could be learned last night, the officers of the club were connected with the F. & D. Company.

Leslie Richard Palmer of No. 68 William street, secretary of the F. & D. Company, exhibited considerable surprise when informed that application for a license for the Garden as a boxing club had been made. The names of the officers of the club were read to Mr. Palmer, and he said he recognized only that of Mr. Van Allen, whom he said he knew very well. Mr. Van Allen was the head of the recent Sportsman's Show in the Garden.
